CHURCH

WORLD

#MoreThanSunday

In the years before clergy had Ministerial Development Reviews, a wise nun from Whitby acted as my work consultant. Once, in preparing to meet with her, I made a list of all the things I did and then arranged them under headings according to what role I was in when I was doing them.

I chaired the PCC as vicar, presided at the Eucharist as priest, but what amazed me was how much of my time and my activities came under the headings of "baptised Christian" and "member of the local church". Praying at home, reading the bible, collecting for Christian Aid, volunteering with a Housing Association, serving on the civil Parish Council, giving a tenth of my income to church and charity - none of these either required ordination or particularly benefitted from it.

Next month we will be launching #MoreThanSunday. It's a lay-led project that focuses on all that we do as followers of Jesus that doesn't require a special calling. It will offer ideas and challenges about how we can live out our faith and deepen our discipleship across all seven days of the week. There will be podcasts and reflections to inspire us, along with actions that we can try to challenge and strengthen our everyday faith. It won't be about cramming yet more into already over busy lives, but will acknowledge what we're already doing and encourage us to see faith and life as a single journey, deeper into the heart of God.

CHURCH FOR A DIFFERENT WORLD AWARDS 2019

Following their success for the past two years, the Church for a Different World awards are back again, with applications invited by 31 July 2019.

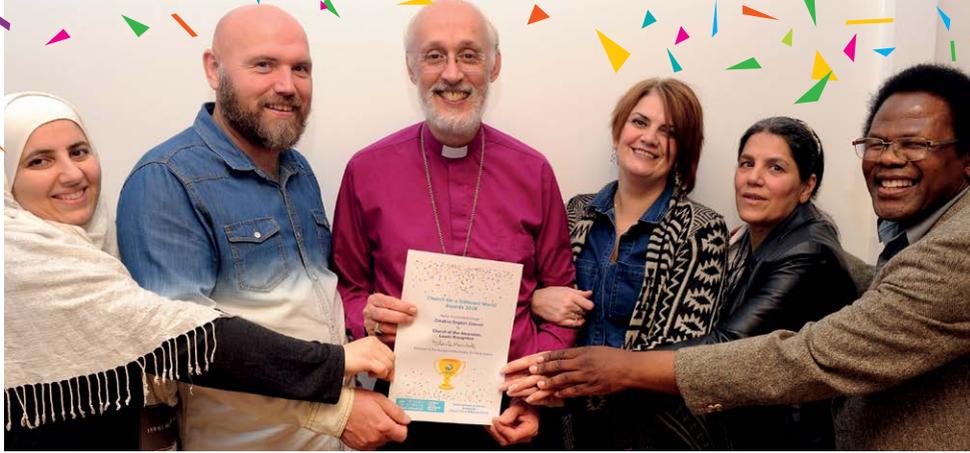

The awards celebrate how churches across Greater Manchester and Rossendale are changing to meet the needs of their communities in all kinds of ways. We have been inspired to hear how churches are adapting to meet local needs, reach people in new ways and grow their congregations.

What can you celebrate about your church community? What could others learn from and possibly try in their church? Each month we have shared a story in CRUX from one of the award winning projects, and we hope these have encouraged and moved you.

Bishop David will be looking out for projects that demonstrate how we are serving, nurturing and growing in new ways to meet the needs of a changing world. Perhaps you have embraced new technology such as social media or digital giving, or worked together with new partners in the community or other churches to achieve more together than you could on your own?

For details of how to apply, please visit www.manchester.anglican.org/awards/

CREATIVE ENGLISH CLASSES

The Ascension in Lower Broughton provides English classes for refugees and migrant workers that have boosted their confidence and helped them integrate into the community.

The project, which uses role play, games and drama to enable people to practise conversational English, has won a Church for a Different World award from Bishop David.

The church had noticed that the makeup of the parish had changed over the years, becoming more ethnically diverse and including people from Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

With support from the Red Cross and Revive, the PCC approved a programme of Creative English classes that use role play based on everyday situations such as shopping, visiting the doctor or talking to teachers. Each session contains activities that are both educational and fun.

Mahfouza, who fled the civil war in Syria said, "After taking my children to school I would come back and stay home all day. But once I was taken to the English classes at The Ascension I learnt to speak some English."

A migrant Polish worker said, "I had done a previous English course but soon forgot everything. This course is good because I can come every week and practise. We laugh! We are friends. It's good to learn with natural speakers without feeling judged."

Over two years, the project has educated over 100 people, including many typically 'difficult to reach' women from conservative cultures. Lasting friendships have been formed and people have the confidence to speak without an interpreter, so no longer feel cut off from wider society. One of the students has even become a teacher herself.

Canon David Wyatt, Priest in Charge, is looking forward to the rebuilding of The Ascension, following a devastating fire in 2017, so that it once again takes its place at the centre of the Broughton community. The classes were moved to St Paul's, Paddington following the fire.

KNOWING OUR PLACE

To mark the 25th anniversary of women first being ordained as priests in the Church of England, a conference in Manchester celebrated how far women have come and mapped the future direction of women's ministry.

'Knowing our Place' featured a great line-up of speakers who spoke movingly of their experiences of being selected, trained and ministering in the Church. Participants heard about some of the barriers to belonging that women still face as they seek to see their calling fulfilled, including ethnicity, gender and disability.

The conference heard from women who found it hard to find their place in a Church that is traditionally white, male and middle class. "The Church needs to have people in positions of leadership who better reflect the diversity of the community they serve", said The Revd Grace Thomas.

Archdeacons Karen and Cherry shared their journeys to ordination in the 1980s, when the Church of England was a very different place. Cherry spoke of pursuing the journey with trust and obedience, unsure whether she would ever be a priest and have her sense of calling fulfilled. She was among the 'Class of 94' – the first 32 women to be ordained priest in Manchester Diocese in 1994.

Revd Sally Robinson spoke courageously about her 'unconventional journey' to priesthood. Although well supported by the diocese in her training, she challenged the inflexible structures that prevented her reaching her full potential academically while also caring for her severely disabled daughter.

Karen found the journey at times lonely and difficult, but at the same time recognised that it was a privilege to be a pioneer and help shape the church through her characteristics of discernment, inspiration and passion.

Looking to the future women were encouraged to continue pushing the boundaries and challenging the structures that have served the church for so long. Many felt encouraged and empowered by what they heard.

The day concluded with a joyful celebratory service at the cathedral.

She served as Rector of Moss Side, St James with St Clement and Whalley Range, St Edmund and also held a range of diocesan roles including Bishop's Adviser for Women's Ministry and Borough Dean for the City and Borough of Manchester. She was made an Honorary Canon of Manchester Cathedral in 2007.

Sarah, who is currently Archdeacon of York, will be the first woman to serve as a bishop in the Diocese of Lichfield.

HEAD OF CHURCH GROWTH

The diocese has appointed The Revd Mike Starkey as Head of Church Growth. This is a new post that is important for translating the diocesan vision for growth into practical action. Mike will advise the diocese on strategies for growth. He will also have particular responsibility for enabling church planting, Fresh Expressions and exploring the possibilities for new Resource Churches.

Mike originally trained as a journalist and worked as a reporter in commercial radio. Following a serious car accident, he had a big change of direction and trained to be a priest. After ordination, Mike worked as a vicar in London for nearly 20 years, mainly in churches that were struggling, helping them to grow in numbers. His experience in ministry included inner city suburbs across a wide range of church traditions.

After London, Mike was a vicar in mid-Wales and a Canon of Bangor Cathedral. For the past five years he has been a tutor for the Church Army in Sheffield, training students for church-based community and outreach work. He created the popular Faith Pictures and Why on Earth...? courses for study groups, and authored books, including Born to Shop, Restoring the Wonder, and Ministry Rediscovered. He is a regular writer/presenter of BBC Radio 2 Pause for Thought and teaches courses in writing for radio for the Church of England.

Mike, who has family roots in Manchester, said,

“ I couldn't be more excited about joining the diocese as Head of Church Growth. I'm looking forward to learning from people doing mission in different contexts and working with churches of different traditions to explore ways they can grow in changing times. ”

Mike will support lay and ordained leaders by providing resources and courses to help them with their growth programmes.

Meet some of our new ordinands who will be ordained this month

I REMEMBER THINKING 'I'M RUNNING THE WRONG RACE HERE!'

"I enjoyed working for the NHS in Greater Manchester as a paramedic for 14 years, getting out and about, meeting lots of different people, and the satisfaction of helping."

Ian and his wife were involved with their local church where, as churchwarden and ALM, Ian was encouraged to 'give it a go up front', but he'd always thought of himself as a practical kind of guy who helps out behind the scenes, not an 'up at the front' guy, and certainly not an 'up at the front' guy in robes!

"Whenever I took the opportunity, there was an unusual sense of peace alongside the nervousness I associated with leading worship. God seemed to be doing something, but it was way out of my comfort zone. I prayed that God would make it obvious if he wanted me to change direction.

"I remember being on a treadmill in the gym before work and thinking, 'I'm running in completely the wrong race here'. Encouragements from family and friends and church slowly built up, culminating in a line from a sermon which I couldn't get out of my head, 'Don't miss out on the opportunity to spend your life on God's work!'"

Encouragements, from within and without, led Ian to take the step of talking to the Director of Ordinands, and follow the selection process.

"The day I handed back my NHS green uniform to start training at St Mellitus College was a huge step for me, and a big leap into the unknown. Looking back, it took a great many small steps, encouragements and prayers before I was ready to take that leap of faith.

"As I approach ordination, I'm looking forward to sharing in the faith journeys of others, and hopefully helping them along the way. I'm thrilled to be serving my curacy at Bolton Parish Church and St Philip's. If one thing worries me, it's remembering everyone's names!"

FROM CYPRUS TO ROCHDALE!

"We had been out of church for a few years, and with a somewhat eclectic background, we just didn't seem to fit anywhere. We had been thinking we would take early retirement and relocate to Cyprus!"

Fran was invited by a friend to attend Cathedral Isle of Man, and to her surprise, began to feel at home there and very much part of the family, particularly reconnecting with God through the Eucharist; and undergoing a kind of 'spiritual awakening'.

At a service in January 2016, the Dean of the Cathedral asked Fran if she'd ever considered ordained ministry. She hadn't, but struggled to focus on anything else during the service. She was sure that husband Dave would dismiss the idea.

However, on returning home Fran was shocked to learn that Dave – over a number of weeks – had been thinking that she would get ordained. Fran went back to the Dean and began the discernment process. Dave, to support Fran, started attending the Cathedral that Easter and soon found himself thinking 'I could do that as well'. He began to wonder if God may be behind his thoughts, and the Dean encouraged him to start the discernment process, with the proviso that they could stop at any point if Dave didn't feel it was right to continue.

Both Fran and Dave found the process emotionally taxing, but highly formational and healing. "Through the discernment process each time we faced a hurdle, this was somehow with God's grace and some tears, overcome."

"We attended a Pioneer Panel, and both of us were recommended for Ordained Pioneer Ministry (OPM). After separate Bishop's Advisory Panels, we were amazingly given the go ahead by the Bishop to train together for Ordained Ministry.

"As OPM training was not available on the Isle of Man we moved to train at St Mellitus College in Liverpool, which we have absolutely loved. We will soon take up a Pioneer Curacy in Rochdale. We have learnt that God is full of unexpected surprises, and His ways are definitely not our ways! Cyprus is on the backburner for now!"

CANON ALAN BUTLER, RIP

It is with sadness that we report that the Revd Canon Alan Butler died in April, aged 62, after a short illness. Alan was Incumbent of High Crompton and Thornham for nearly 20 years.

Prayer was a priority for Alan, not just for himself but by encouraging others to pray. He was the driving force behind the diocesan Spiritual Companionship course, which had a profound effect on the prayer and discipleship of its participants, enabling a real depth of encounter with God and one another.

Alan was a renowned spiritual director who listened and shared his vulnerability and joy. When invited to be chaplain for the Bishop's staff he had us drawing our names in pastels. I thought

'surely he's not going to have us read children's stories'. He did! He didn't feel the need to impress us with his deep knowledge of Ignatian spirituality. How brave and how wise, for unless you become like little children you will never enter the Kingdom of God.

Alan loved being a parish priest. You couldn't see the join between Alan the priest and Alan the person because there wasn't one. He was gentle and wise and accepted others just as they were. His ministry could be characterised as one of 'holiness and hospitality'. In heaven the two become one; for sacraments shall cease and there is one heavenly banquet.

We remember Alan's wife, Pam, and his children and siblings in prayer, giving thanks for Alan's life as a priest and certain in the Easter hope of life everlasting.

JOHN THE BAPTIST

Mark Davies,
Bishop of Middleton

This month the Church celebrates the birthday of St John the Baptist, the forerunner of Jesus. Only two saints merit a celebration of their birthday – the Blessed Virgin Mary and John the Baptist, both of whom played a unique role in ushering in the dawn of salvation.

The actual date of John's birth is unknown. However, in St Luke's Gospel the angel Gabriel tells Mary that her cousin, Elizabeth, John's mother, is six months pregnant and so, tradition places John's birth six months before Jesus' birth.

Some commentators have seen a cosmic significance in all of this. Just as the birth of Jesus is celebrated near the winter solstice, so the birth of John is celebrated near the summer solstice. After the birth of Jesus, the days grow longer and after the birth of John the days grow shorter. We are reminded of John's own words: "He (Jesus) must increase; I must decrease."

The story of John can be read in all four gospels where he is seen to be the forerunner of Jesus, the one who in a very particular way prepares the way for Jesus and who baptises Him. In Luke chapter 1 there is a beautiful record of the events surrounding John's miraculous conception and birth that give us much food for thought and prayer (verses 5-25 and 57-80).

As we celebrate John's birth, here are some ideas for contemplation:

John rejoices in the womb of his mother, Elizabeth, at the presence of Jesus in the womb of His mother, Mary. (Luke 1:44). Be attentive for the ways in which Jesus comes into our lives, often in unexpected and surprising ways. He is the God of surprises and He's a master of disguise. Keep a look out and rejoice to recognise Him.

John calls the people to repentance. (Luke 3:3). Take seriously sin and the mercy of God. By repenting of our sins we will know each day the joy of forgiveness and live in the fullness of life that Jesus longs for us to know.

John prepared the way for Jesus. (Malachi 3:1 and 4:5-6). Each day we are called to be the love of Jesus in action in the places where He has planted us. We are invited to live out our baptismal life, to bring the light of Jesus into the darkness around us, to be bearers of hope and agents of change, to celebrate what is good and to challenge injustice. This is Church for a Different World! What will it look like for you?

Let's rejoice to make the words of Zechariah, John's father, our own, "Blessed be the Lord the God of Israel, who has come to his people and set them free." (Luke 1:68)

We want to hear your thoughts
